RE Context: National Curriculum

High quality RE is fundamental to ensuring that pupils become theologically, spiritually, morally and socially aware, developing knowledge, empathy and compassion, as well as the ability to evaluate and analyse. At Bearwood Primary School our children will receive in depth teaching of the theological, sociological and philosophical aspects of world views in order to erase misconceptions and empower our children to make informed decisions about their own beliefs and values. Furthermore, children will leave Bearwood Primary School nurturing an attitude of tolerance to others who have different belief systems ideologies and practices. We need our young people to understand that life is precious and that it is important to cherish themselves and others, to build a strong sense of their own value and identity and be the best people they can be.

Agreed Syllabus BCP coverage of world views

3.1 Which religions and worldviews are taught when? (Breadth of Study) In order to provide a broad and balanced Religious Education curriculum, to ensure statutory requirements are met, and to offer flexibility to schools to design an RE curriculum best suited to the needs of their pupils and considering the local demographic:

- Christianity must be studied in each Key Stage, preferably in each year group;
- Islam and Judaism must be studied in both the Primary and Secondary Phase;
- The non-religious worldview of Humanism is highly recommended to be taught in both the Primary and Secondary Phase;
- Other religions and worldviews relevant to the local community may be studied at the school's discretion. It is hoped that pupils will encounter Buddhism (highly recommended), and at least one of Hinduism or Sikhism as well as the required religions and Humanism.
- Ideally pupils will encounter all 6 principal religions plus the non-religious worldview of Humanism by the end of Key Stage 4;
- Ongoing liaison across school clusters is vital to plan progression and continuity, to avoid duplication of context and to ensure pupils receive their entitlement.

Agreed Syllabus BCP strands of learning

A :Know about and understand a range of religions and worldviews, so that they can:

- describe, explain and analyse beliefs and practices, recognising the diversity which exists within and between communities and amongst individuals;
- identify, investigate and respond to questions posed, and responses offered by some of the sources of wisdom found in religions and non-religious worldviews;
- appreciate and appraise the nature, significance and impact of different ways of life and ways of expressing meaning.

B:Express ideas and insights about the nature, significance and impact of religions and non-religious worldviews, so that they can:

- explain reasonably their ideas about how beliefs, practices and forms of expression influence individuals and communities;
- express with increasing discernment, their personal reflections and critical responses to questions and teachings about identity, diversity, meaning and value, including ethical issues;
- appreciate and appraise varied dimensions of religion or a non-religious worldview.

C. Gain and deploy the skills needed to engage seriously with religions and nonreligious worldviews, so that they can:

- find out about and investigate key concepts and questions of belonging, meaning, purpose and truth, responding creatively;
- enquire into what enables different individuals and communities to live together respectfully for the wellbeing of all;
- articulate beliefs, values and commitments clearly in order to explain why they may be important in their own and other people's lives. (NCFRE pages 11-12)
